INTRODUCTION

The Year Book has come to be an institution to which we look for certain items of information and it is recognized even far beyond the limits of our own denomination as the official record of these items. The experimental stage of its issue has passed and it should be looked upon as a serious proposition and a permanent periodical of the Mennonite Church.

We cannot express our gratitude with sufficient emphasis for the prompt and generous response to our circular letter asking for information regarding changes to be made in our tabular work and for the liberal response to the call for original literary matter. The publication would not be possible without this response. But it would not be quite fair if we did not repeat the reminder that there are a few—I am glad to say that they are very few—who have not answered our request for this much needed information. "What private griefs they have, alas! I know not, that made them" neglect to do it. Perhaps they were busy. Perhaps they forgot it. Perhaps they thought their little corner did not matter. Any of these excuses or reasons, whichever they might be inclined to term them, would reveal a very imperfect conception of the place we are expected to fill in the economy of God's universe. For, no matter how small in itself a duty may be, its fulfilling is a part of God's great plan and a failure to perform it means just so much permanent, irreparable loss. In former years we have sent reminders to these delinquents. This year we did not do this, feeling that it was in the interests of all to send in their responses. It is a matter of regret that the loss is not only to those who fail in their duty but also to all who look to these pages for the latest reliable information concerning our beloved Church.

While we have endeavored to make the tabular pages of this little book as free from errors as it is possible to have them, we realize that there must remain some inaccuracies. We fondly hope that, where these occur, our readers will inform us of the fact, so that later issues may be corrected, and that year after year there may be fewer and fewer of these errors. The publishers have no other way than to publish the old lists unchanged until information comes that there has been a change. It thus has happened that names were retained in the lists for several years after the persons were dead. Wrong addresses have been repeated in the same way, much against our desire to give misleading information.

Again we want to sincerely thank our patrons for the kind reception accorded the Year Book in the past, and we bespeak for this issue the same generous circulation. Our purpose in life is to glorify God and we wish to fulfill our purpose in this publication as in all other acts. We hope that in some way these pages may strengthen the hands and confirm the courage and hope of those who are engaged in the great work of bringing a knowledge of salvation to the lost.

LET US LOOK BACK

In these closing days of the year seems to be the natural and logical time for us to pause in our onward rush and look backward over the twelve-month which is almost at its close. What has the year meant to us as individuals? What has it meant to us as a Church? What has it meant to our community? Is the world a little better or a little worse for our having lived in it for these three hundred sixty-six days?

A careful look at the tables at the close of this book will show some of the things that have happened in some of the institutions of the Church. One set of tables takes in the missions and charitable institutions of the Church that are under the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities, the General Mission Board of the Church. There are a few other missions and institutions that are under other Boards and Committees. In this issue of the Year Book these have not been included under the tables. Perhaps by another year they may find it convenient to send their reports to the Secretary of the General Board in order to get our statistics more compact and more accurate. We hope so.

The Mennonite Children's Home at Millersville has admitted during the year under report 23 inmates and from the beginning of the work to the close of the year a total of 170. The total number of children in the home was 29 at the time of report and the whole number of children in homes under the supervision of the institution is 102. For an institution so young in years as this, the showing in cold figures is very creditable.

The mission at Altoona is another of the institutions not under the General Board. Its field of labor is hard and it has required much grace and continuous exercise of faith to be courageous under the many trials. But figures cannot tell the amount of good that is done by a work such as this. A similar statement might be made in regard to the work of our mission in Philadelphia. The workers there are faithfully bearing their testimony and eternity alone will reveal the good that is being done.

Bro. A. F. Wiens, of the Mennonite Rescue Mission of Chicago reports that their little mission congregation contributed about $200.00 to the work of the mission and about $45.00 to foreign missions. This is certainly a good showing.

The Mennonite Home near Lancaster, Pa., is worthy of special mention. It has the unique distinction among our charitable institutions of being self supporting. The contributions of those who pay for their support in addition to other permanent income are sufficient to pay all expenses. A visit to the Home gives the impression that it is in its truest sense a home and not a mere institution.

Lancaster is also the seat of a mission that deserves more than passing mention. Well do we remember the time when the church on Chestnut Street, with its services every four weeks in the afternoon, was regarded as an experiment of very doubtful benefit. Things have changed since then, and we hope that they may continue to change until Vine Street will be the location of a church and a place for "the mission" will be found in a more needy field.

Another Lancaster county institution is the Columbia Home Mission with a reported membership of 25. Figures of the work here are not available, but He who knows the secrets of the hearts of men has the record, if we do not.

Over at Job (I wonder if that name is symbolical of the patience of the workers), in West Virginia, is a mission station that is steadily outgrowing the name of mission. Last year we printed a picture which we supposed was that of the mission home but which we found out later was the picture of a prosperous farmer's home in West Virginia. You will find the correct picture of the Job, W. Va., mission house as a frontispiece of this booklet.

A look backward at the work of the Church in general is full of causes for joy as we see many evidences of progress in the right direction, as we see numbers of young people, and older ones too, coming into the Church, as we see new fields of work opened. One of the encouraging features of the work in general is the large number of openings there are for our people to enter with the Gospel as our people understand it. These many calls are a challenge to us. Shall we accept it? We have volunteers for work wherever the Lord opens the way. Shall we get the volunteers and the work together, or shall we wait a more convenient season? And while we wait, let us remember that the true reaper in the harvest of the Lord will find sheaves to garner, or at least heads to glean in every corner of the vast field, and needs not to wait for the "official action" of this, that, or the other committee in order that he may find work to do. The harvest is still as plenteous as it was in the days of our Master's life on earth.

MENNONITES IN RUSSIA AND WHY THEY CAME TO AMERICA

M. B. Fast

In the year 1786, the Czarina Katharine II sent Georg von Trappe, a high officer of Russia, to Germany to persuade the Mennonites to come to Russia. Two delegates, Jacob Hoepfner and John Bartsch, were sent by the Mennonites to investigate and they found the land good. Up to the year 1827 about 400 families came to Russia. They first located along the Dnieper River and later on the Molotschna. Each family got 65 desjatine of land or about 175 acres, and they received from Czar Paul I on the first of September, 1800, the privilege of being exempt from military duties for ever.

The Mennonites cultivated and built up the so-called desert places in South Russia, and, finally after they had passed thru terrible hardships, they enjoyed material prosperity. In all about 1150 families came to Russia in this Emigration. Over 300 families had to be helped by the government. It is claimed that there are today 822,838 Mennonites in Russia.

Religiously these Mennonites quarreled a great deal among themselves, and often the government had to send officers from St. Petersburg to fix matters up which really should have been adjusted by themselves in the Church. The cause of this difficulty was that there was only a very small number of truly converted people among them. They only kept the faith of their fathers in the letter.

There were about 70 villages of Mennonites with about 22 farmers to the village. Large tracts of land were thrown in with each village for streets and roads. In 1865 each village had a number of houses built at each end and about one acre of land was given to the young married people and to some very poor families who came later from Germany and Poland. These poor people had to do as the farmer wished and worked for from 12 to 16 hours a day for 30 kopeks (15c.) and board. Finally some few of these poor Mennonites arose and demanded land. They had no end of trouble till they got the land owners to give up the surplus land, and then they got only 12 desjatine to the family.

In 1871 the "everlasting privilege" was revoked by the government and military duties were imposed upon all Mennonites. They spent a great deal of money, and finally the government granted them an extension of the exemption. They were to build "Kasernen" (barracks) out of their own money and all the able-bodied young men were to be drafted and sent out to plant forests, etc., and so work for the government four years.

But a number of Mennonites thought this was against God's Word and against the will of their fathers and wanted to leave the country. Czar Alexander II told them they might be free to leave until 1880.

In 1873 those Mennonites who would not accept the provision of government for the performance of any "military duties" agreed to send out 12 delegates to America to find a new home. Only one of these delegates, Bishop Paul Tschetter of Bridgewater, South Dakota, is still living.

One man in Canada, Wm. Hespler, Bro. J. F. Funk of Elkhart, Ind., and C. B. Schmidt in connection with the Santa Fe R. R., did very much to show these 12 "Kundschafter" their land. The opinion of the delegates became divided. A number thought the place ought to be Canada, while others did not want to live in so cold a climate. Some were in favor of Manitoba, some chose South Dakota, and others favored Minnesota, Nebraska, and the majority settled in Kansas.

When the delegates returned to Russia with their report, about 12 or 15 families started out in the same year and located in Marion county, Kansas.

It was not an easy task to dispose of property in Russia when it became known that a large number of the people wanted to move to America. The neighbors took advantage of the occasion and offered a very low price for the land. Nobody but a Mennonite could buy land from a Mennonite.

Then the officials who were to issue the passports also took the opportunity to impose on the emigrants and certainly made good the old saying, "Podjom safra," (Come again tomorrow). From New Year it took until the fore part of July to secure passports. The nominal price of a passport was 3 rubles, but the time they were issued they cost about 60 rubles each. The difference consisted in illegal fees collected by different officials.

The writer well remembers the large loads—a European hayrack—packed with wagons, the clumsy fork, the rusty spade, the old-fashioned plow with wooden moldboard, and such things as a peasant in Russia had. He well remembers seeing these great loads moving away toward the railway station which was quite a long distance away.

About 250 families left the first year. They had to travel in two sections and on two boats. Most of them had never seen a railway before they came to the station on this trip.

A good many Mennonites were anxious to move to America but were altogether without means. At first each party helped their poor along, but later a committee was formed in the United States among the so-called Old Mennonites and they gave large sums of money to help the poor Russian Mennonites to come to this country. In 1877, when we came, they paid the fare across the ocean to destination for 55 persons. There were also large sums of money loaned to these immigrants, which, with very few exceptions, was paid back with interest. It seems almost a miracle that not one person of the thousands who came to America in this Emigration was killed by accident, though a few died enroute.

The farewell scenes at a number of places were heartbreaking. Some young couples had to go with the parents of the one side and leave the others. Some young people who did not marry before they left Russia, left marks of shame behind them. Most of these located in Marion and Reno Counties, Kansas.

The same sort of emigration was repeated until in 1880. Those going later took less freight than those who first went. Experience had taught them a better plan. It took over four weeks to make the trip. One great difference was that, while the first emigrants received 76 cents for each ruble, those who came in 1877, when we came to America, received only 46 cents per ruble. A farm in Russia that before was worth about 5,000 or 6,000 rubles sold for 2,500 rubles.

To tell the story of how the railway companies took hold of the situation and helped the Mennonites would make a little book of itself. They offered great accommodations and spent much money besides hauling the people free on their roads, and also paid all the freight, even across the ocean—that is, for those who bought land of the Santa Fe in Kansas. In the United States none of the railroad companies would allow the Mennonites to go far enough west to take homesteads, but sold to them land which they had just received from the government for building railways across the continent. The land sold was very good and cost only from $3.00 to $5.00 per acre on easy terms.

In Manitoba they mostly took up homesteads free, but seemingly they did not do any better financially than those in the United States. In South Dakota also a few homesteads were taken up.

Most of the houses our people built on the prairies were not very costly. Some of them did not cost over $25.00. Most of them were built in the same way that our great-grandfathers built theirs in Holland,

Traveling in Russia

Germany, and Russia. The dwelling house, one end facing the street, was about 36 by 48 feet. On the other end was the barn, 8 to 10 feet wider and about 70 feet long. The granary, which held all the grain, hay, and straw, was built as an elbow to the barn. And all was under one great roof. The family, horses, cows, chickens, hogs, etc., were all under one roof—each class in its own department, of course. If the farmer or his helpers were not very cleanly, the people were compelled to refrain from using some of their five senses—especially that of smell. In Russia all our dwellings were built as above mentioned, but here only a few in each settlement were built that way.

A wooden floor in Russia was seldom found and that generally in only one room, what we now call the parlor. I myself was born and raised in a house with only mother earth for a floor, and I don't remember ever being sick except that I had the measles.

Now among the farmers in Nebraska, Kansas, and almost all over the continent where the Mennonites have moved to and settled, it is nothing unusual to find a residence costing $4,000.00 or more. I know one house in Nebraska which cost $30,000.00 and the owner is a Mennonite, too.

The Mennonites in Russia were divided into six different branches. Here in America they are divided once more and there are not less than twelve different—what shall we call them? tribes?—of Mennonites. May God grant that all may yet be one in true faith before Jesus comes.

RURAL WORK

The following four articles are an interesting series of discussions of different phases of work in the country districts. In order that our attention may be given to thought rather than to the writer, the names of the authors have been omitted.—Ed.

Mission Work in the Country

We as a Church have followed the circle of missions till we are back to our starting point. Nourished in the country our hearts have been led forth to the city and foreign field to relieve the suffering of body and soul. As we found the good will of our Master in the fields strange to us, it is but natural that the Spirit of God would lead our eyes to look at the need of the rural communities which are not so strange to us. We have been using different terms to express the different phases of work in which we labor. We are inclined to make our work departmental, and stall off our workers for the different fields. As workers we are liable to feel that our stall is about the most important of the whole collection. But, thank God, the spirit of missions cuts across stalls and uses men and women to reach needy souls everywhere regardless of our methodical thoughts about departments. This has led us to find mission work in the country as well as the city even before such a name has been taken up on the stall, as "The Department of Rural Missions."

It matters not whether our work is tagged or not, dear reader. It does matter whether we are willing to serve at the Master's bidding in helping the needy souls whom the Lord has given us to serve. This waiting to be tagged sometimes takes the best message out of our life anyhow. Somehow when we walk into a community with ourselves all branded over with high sounding titles as missionaries, there springs up a query in the minds of the people we would reach whether or no, after all, we are not posing as so far superior to them that they dare not approach us. Some would even invite us to revise our opinion of the community and particularly understand that they are "not heathen." While this pride of community may truly reveal the absence of the Spirit of God, it likewise reveals in us almost unintentionally a pride of attainment which likewise emanates from the spirit of the world. May God truly give us the feeling of brotherly kindness that can take others into our fellowship in heart to heart helpfulness that recognizes our need of one another.

It is impossible to patch up a reputation so that the patches won't show.

Rural Problems for our Church to Consider

This is a day of opportunities indeed, both in temporal and spiritual ways, in part because of conveniences, brought about by inventions of man, of various kinds, and since "man's heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked," and every one of us has one of these hearts; we need to ask the Creator of this heart to help us know it, and to be full of His love.

In the rural district problems may be somewhat different from those of the city; yet the rural field is getting nearer the city evils continually because of the modern conveniences. So, then, our rural problems are becoming greater, with every step towards the city.

All persons cannot afford the conveniences to take them to the city or town churches, therefore rural work remains, and, as someone has truly said, "the more of these temporal things we possess the more our mind is on them, therefore less time for THE things." So while we look at the prosperity of OUR rural churches we must wonder if our working force is getting stronger or weaker.

The fact has often been stated that many rural meeting houses are being closed in many older districts. In newer districts they are not yet built.

People who formerly worshiped God in humble meeting houses in the rural district now go to church in the cities, or do not go at all. And the few members who remain are not able to keep up the salary of the minister and are left to their own fate. Another open door for those willing to give as they received, "Freely ye have received freely give."

Again the Enemy of souls has his agents out and they are bold to deceive, "even the very elect if possible." Therefore, the Mennonite Church, teaching the whole Gospel of Jesus Christ, has a problem of great importance.

Think, dear reader, of the many thousand in some rural districts who have not even a place to attend Sunday school! Parents being indifferent, probably have moved away from church privileges, and their little jewels are growing up in a cold world—have we a right to become cold in our Christian life? Or, if we always were cold is it not our duty to become hot? First neglecting our morning prayers or daily devotions, then one step after another of indifference. No; we need to be alarmed, souls are hungering for the Gospel. An item before me states "2,000 pastorless churches in the — denomination because of starvation wages," is the religion of Jesus Christ to be placed on the level of some secular work or craft, when it comes to us as a free gift?

"By grace are ye saved through faith." The rural field needs (not so much means, for in many places they are there, but consecrated workers.—"A living sacrifice." Rom. 12:1.

Difficulties and Joys of Rural Evangelism

The difficulties in securing an audience are real obstacles in the work. Some rural communities are so sparsely settled and so limited in means of conveyance that these are hindrances to securing an audience, but the average rural community is not thus handicapped. Some people are so devoted in their quest of worldly pleasure that they seldom, if ever, enter the house of the Lord. Some are so engrossed with the cares of this life that they think they haven't time to go to church. Others claim that they are too tired to go to church on Sunday. Then there are some who have become so disgusted with the inconsistent lives of some Christian professors and the fault-finding rumors concerning others, that they will not come to the house of the Lord. Moreover, in some communities Christian professors have formed the habit of going to church every two weeks or once a month and going visiting or resting at home on other Sundays. All of these things increase the difficulties of securing an audience.

Inefficiency in the workers whether it is in the ministry, superintendent, or teachers, and frequently it is in each of these, handicaps the work.

Then the fact that most rural pastors, by force of existing circumstances are so engaged in securing a livelihood six days in a week that they fail to do as much visitation work as they should and often fail to make thorough preparation for the preaching of the Word makes the work more difficult.

Although these and other difficulties exist there are encouraging features in the rural work.

The encouragement and fellowship of sincere souls is a pleasure. There are people who have for years been enlisted in the service of the Lord and are endeavoring to do His will but they have lived in isolation so long that they sometimes become discouraged. To encourage such and bring them into full fellowship in the service of the Master is indeed a pleasure.

Soul-winning is a joy beyond measure. Though there are many discouraging features and difficulties to overcome, there are people who will come to regular services occasionally and more frequently to evangelistic services so that it is possible to win them. But the personal touch, the heart to heart talk, and the quiet but irresistible influence of consistent living are some of the most successful means of soul winning. May God speed the day when, by some means, the rural pastors will have more time to devote to visitation and personal work and the preparation of their sermons, so that more souls will see the need of salvation and turn to God in sincerity and serve Him with a conscience formed by His Word.

The Call of the Rural Church

The call of the rural churches today is the Macedonian call to the Mennonite Church. No vaster field is open to the Church; no field will yield larger results; no field is more neglected. Spurgeon once said, "It is not so much a question as to whether the heathen will be saved if they do not have the Gospel, but whether we will be saved if we do not send them the Gospel." So in the rural field it is not so much a question of the neglected districts needing the help of the Church as it is the Church needing the help of the rural district. The question is often asked, "Is the country church a thing of the past?" The country church will exist as long as there will be people living in the country. Although the country church has been criticised for its inefficiency we must look to it to save the country. It has been criticised, pitied and even ridiculed but it has not yet been displaced.

The country district is here to stay. Land is a source of all wealth. It furnishes the food supply for all people. This being true farming becomes the greatest of all occupations and the farmer a very important factor in the progress of civilization. The farmer, if he wishes to be his best, must develop his religious life. Hence the great mission of the rural church. It is an established fact that the most progressive farming communities are found where churches are established. For Christianity is the great force that makes for progress even along economic lines.

It then becomes the mission of the country church primarily to teach religion to the people in the community in which it is placed. Its mission is to fight sin and error, rescue the fallen, develop Christian character. Or in other words, the Church must interpret life, set the standard of morals, inculcate unselfishness, neighborliness, and co-operation. It finds its largest life in the broadest kind of sacrificial service.

The great changes that have come about in the economic and social conditions of the rural districts in the last fifty years have brought to the Church a tremendous problem. This problem is the call of the country church. It must be the business of the Church to adapt itself in methods to the community in which it is placed. It must serve the community or die. The death of a large number of country churches reveals to us the fact that not all churches have been able to realize their true mission. This great call comes especially in the Mennonite Church. There are perhaps no other people that are as well adapted to rural work. When the call comes to us today in the form of ignorance, sin, and lawlessness in the neglected country fields; efforts to keep work going; destitution and neglect, may we realize that these needs constitute the call.

Dangers of Isolation

The dangers of isolation are too often overlooked by Christians who are seeking new homes. Sometimes parents are lost from the church of their choice through the lack of correspondence, reading of the Bible and church paper, and the inability of ministering brethren visiting them often.

Children are lost through the influences of their environments. There may be very few or no religious meetings in the neighborhood, and those that are held may be union of such a nature that some essentials of practical Christianity are omitted. This leads many to think that it makes no difference which church they join.

The society lacking strong Christian leadership drifts deeper and deeper into sin and the neighborhood social gathering is very apt to be a play-party or dance, either of which is detrimental to morals and spirituality.

Responsibility of the Minister's Wife

Few can realize the great responsibility that rests upon a minister's wife until they have filled the place.

Her duty should be to help with her prayers, words of encouragement and other ways of helpfulness.

If the minister's wife is careless, disinterested or unsympathetic her influence is a hindrance to her companion instead of a help.

This makes it much harder for him and those whom she should win for the Master's service.

The little ones as they come into our homes are dependent upon the mother to a great extent, because of the father's being away from home engaged in the Lord's work.

After all, we have a great promise if we do not become discouraged. Let us not be weary in well doing for in due time we shall reap if we faint not.

THE WORK OF THE MISSION BOARD FOR THE PAST YEAR

J. S. Shoemaker

We realize that it is a blessed privilege to be "workers together with Him" in seeking to "rescue the perishing;" in lending a helping hand to the needy; in giving relief to the afflicted; in caring for homeless children; in spreading the messages of grace and salvation, and extending the Master's kingdom. To give an accurate report of the extent and results of the work carried on by the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities during the past year would be out of the question, but it has been the aim and purpose of the Board during the period referred to, to faithfully carry out its mission as defined in its charter. How well the Board has succeeded in its aim and purpose is alone known to Him in whom is vested all knowledge.

The burden of the work falls to the Executive and Mission Committees. The former has the management and general oversight of all work coming under the auspices of the Board, and has the authority to perform all the functions and duties of the General Board, subject to such restrictions and directions as the Board may from time to time prescribe. The work of the latter committee is to examine the physical, intellectual, and spiritual qualifications of volunteers for home and foreign mission work, and suggest to the Local Boards the names of such persons as in their opinion can be used to advantage in certain of the home institutions, to investigate and advise as to locating and establishing new stations, also to ascertain the needs of the various institutions and report to the Board.

Relative to the work done by the Executive and Mission Committees during the past year, the following items may be of interest to the reader:

The Executive and Mission Committees held eight joint meetings, at which such business was transacted and action taken on matters as properly came within the province of both committees.

Seven Executive Committee meetings were held. These meetings were held at various times and places. A number of important matters relative to carrying on the mission and charitable work of the Church were considered and acted upon.

Meetings were also held by the Mission Committee, of which the writer is not in a position to give a report. The examination papers which were filled out and sent in by the workers at the various mission and charitable institutions, also those sent in by the volunteers for mission work, all passed through the hands of this committee.

Since the appointment of a Field Worker, and a Financial Agent, the Board has become better equipped to keep in close touch with certain lines of the work, and better prepared to meet some of the special needs, such as securing workers and finances.

At the request of the Executive Committee the Treasurer of the Board resigned his position as Postal Clerk in the Elkhart Post Office, and now gives his entire time to his official duties as Treasurer and Financial Agent of the Board. This change is proving quite an advantage to the Board in solving its financial problems.

The Administration Building which has been erected at Elkhart, Ind., was completed, equipped, and dedicated during the year, and is now occupied by the Treasurer and his family. This building is now the headquarters of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. It has all the necessary equipment and conveniences to accommodate the treasurer and his family; committee rooms in which to hold committee meetings; a roomy vault in which to safely keep valuable papers, etc.; and an office with the necessary equipment to meet the treasurer's needs. The Board is very grateful to the donors who contributed so liberally of their means for the erection of this building, which was so much needed.

Permission has been given by the Board to erect a new Church Building at Canton, Ohio, at a cost of $5000. Steps are being taken to raise the necessary amount of funds, and begin the work as soon as possible. A more commodious and comfortable place of worship will be greatly appreciated by the workers and congregation at Canton.

Realizing the need of more literature along mission lines, the Executive Committee acting conjointly with the Executive Committee of the Publication Board decided upon adding a special Mission Department to the Gospel Herald. This department is composed of eight pages and appears in the first issue of each month. Bro. J. S. Hartzler, the chairman of the Mission Committee, was appointed editor and manager of said department. In connection to this special feature in the Herald, it was decided that Bro. Hartzler continue to write, print, and send out the Monthly Mission Letter as heretofore.

By the authority of the Board, the Home Mission property situated at 639 W. 18th St., Chicago, was disposed of for the sum of $10,000. Three lots located within several blocks of said Mission have been purchased by the Board, on which the Board expects to erect a Church Building and a workers' home to accommodate the needs of the work at this place.

At the request of the Children's Welfare Committee (an organization with headquarters in the State of Kansas) this Committee was taken under the auspices of the General Board. The brethren G. L. Bender and Abram Metzler were appointed as an advisory committee to act conjointly with the Children's Welfare Committee in their work.

The brethren M. C. Lehman and family and P. A. Friesen and family who spent some time on furlough in the home land, returned at the beginning of the fiscal year. Bro. Lehman was accompanied by Chas. L. Shank and wife. Bro. J. N. Kaufman and family whose furlough expired in Dec. are remaining in the home land a while longer in order to take more school work.

Sister Florence Coopridge of Heston, Kans., who has been appointed as a medical missionary to India, sailed for her field of labor early this fall, and arrived at Bombay via Vancouver, and the Pacific on Nov. 24, 1916.

A number of new workers have been assigned work at the various mission and charitable institutions. More workers are needed to fully equip the various stations. "Pray ye the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth more laborers into His harvest."

Eighty or more persons were received into Church fellowship during the year in the various institutions in the home land. A number have also been added to the Indian Church.

The Lord has been richly blessing the orphanage, medical, industrial, educational, colportage, evangelistic, and other lines of work carried on by our missionaries and their native helpers in India. Praise the Lord for what is being accomplished in extending Christ's kingdom among the heathen.

The Tenth Annual Meeting of the Board was held at The Forks Church near Middlebury, Ind., May 22-24, 1916. The meeting was well attended and much business of an important nature was transacted. The Report of the meeting has been printed in pamphlet form. Copies of the report will be cheerfully sent to any one who will make his desires known to the writer.

Many have been the problems of the Board during the past year, some of them have been somewhat difficult to solve, a few of them remain unsolved at this time because of the difficulty in coming to a satisfactory solution.

The work of the Board during the past year is very insignificant in comparison to the great needs of the various fields, and what has been done falls far short of perfection. We realize that the responsibilities of the Board are great and its capabilities are indeed quite limited. Its opportunities are many, but how to take advantage of them is what puzzles its members. "To will is present with" us; "but how to perform that which is good" is the difficult part. We have given but a faint conception of the nature and extent of the work as carried on under the auspices of the Board in the foregoing items.

With the prayers of God's children to support us, and the loving Father to help and direct us, it is our aim to press on in the Master's great work, with greater hopes, for greater results in extending the Master's kingdom both in home and foreign fields.

OUR INDIA MISSION TWENTY YEARS HENCE

J. N. Kaufman

Having written more or less on conditions as they exist in the mission field, the work missions have been able to accomplish, the influence of Christianity upon the non-Christian world, including descriptions of our own mission in India, I feel that it would be a matter of interest and a source of great inspiration to take a look into the future and see what our India mission may reasonably be expected to accomplish in the next twenty years. I fully realize the responsibility of making the statements which shall follow. I appreciate the fact that "there is many a slip between cup and lip" and that whatever the trend may be at present there are many circumstances which can easily change the entire prospect.

Not being able to look into the future and definitely predict the coming events, I am limited to an investigation of the past and present and note the tendencies which have characterized our mission work. But in this attempt I am distinctly hampered because our mission is too young to serve as a basis upon which to form any conclusions. I, therefore, am obliged to look into the history of mission work in general and note very briefly the trend of its development. It is a well known fact that Christianity is increasing very rapidly in India—that the rate of increase is becoming higher every decade. The millions in India are becoming accustomed to the work and influence of Christianity. Hindus in all sections are acknowledging the superior force of Christianity. The lower castes are being won to Christ and these by careful training and development are superseding the Brahmins, filling positions of influence which have been occupied without challenge by the high caste people for centuries. It is needless to discuss the great effect this has upon Hinduism. The low caste people just referred to are coming to Christ literally by the thousands. The Methodist Mission in India in 1915 refused baptism to 40,000 people and put off 150,000 inquirers simply because they did not have workers to take care of them!

able to compel a greater respect on the part of the non-Christians.

Having noted the tendencies in Christian work in India in the past and present, and mission work in general, I shall now trace these tendencies in our own mission. A gradual, if slow, growth and development can be traced in our India mission since its beginning. The Church is becoming older, more mature, and more experienced. Over a hundred children of Christians are already a part of our Christian community and we are definitely and confidently expecting them to be

Sundarganj Compound

This is but one illustration of the tremendous influence upon the people exerted by Christianity and suggests to us an encouraging phase of development. This progress has been regular. It has been gradual. It has come because of hard, persistent Christian effort for many years. Besides, it is general and is spreading out to fields hitherto untouched. This hard, persistent effort was not confined to the missionary force at work in India, but came also from the rapidly increasing native force which is receiving careful training. This native force with more mature experience has been added to the Church. A most encouraging start has already been made among the village people and here and there people have been baptised among them. These people will mean much in winning others for the Master.

Our mission is working on a definite plan of occupation for the future in order to economize as much as possible in relation to workers and finances. The Survey Committee which has been at work for a number of years has a stupendous task which will cover many years of careful investigation. The duty of this committee is to look over the field in a careful manner, note the physical conditions, status of the people, determine as to whether they are favorable to the opening of mission stations in their district and decide as to how many stations and foreign and native workers will be required to cover the field adequately. I am not now in a position to say what the findings of this committee will be but it is within reasonable accuracy to say that in order to occupy the mission field of the American Mennonite Mission there will be required five new stations to be occupied by American missionaries. If you will consult your maps of our India mission field you will note that in the vicinity of Mahodi about twenty-five miles north east of Dhamtari is a large district which requires one of the five stations. Then Gariaband will require two and Kanker two stations. In order to take care of the work of these stations at least ten new missionaries will be needed. Statements have been made in public by some of our Church leaders to the effect that no more new missionaries are required in India—that the present force is sufficient. Such statements are unofficial and unwarranted and no one can expect anything like satisfactory results with an allotment of 20,000 people to each missionary which would be the case if the present force of workers would not be increased. I am not neglecting the native workers when I criticise the statement above referred to; for, although they are able to do much work, they are not capable of assuming much responsibility.

Calls come from Hindus and Mohammedans all over our district to come and open mission work! The Sihawa district was opened in response to a call from a Mohammedan friend of the mission. This friend offered to donate to the mission all the land required for the buildings and surroundings. This place might have been opened many years before had the means and workers been available. In the vicinity of Mahodi, the landlord has already given a plot of ground large enough for the building of a house and necessary buildings to be occupied by missionaries, and the only thing which prevents the mission from opening work at this place is money to build a bungalow and missionaries to occupy it. I am, however, glad to say that friends have promised to contribute to this work and that native workers are at work in a small way at this place. If Hindus and Mohammedans are thus supporting Christian mission work, surely our faith must be small if we can not believe that our friends in America will contribute their reasonable share.

At this point I may be allowed to enumerate what we may look for in our India mission in twenty years from now. Judging from past developments and present tendencies following a logical plan of occupation there will be then ten mission stations occupied by missionaries. In place of the present orphanages there will be large boarding schools in which are found the children of Christian parents. The Normal and High Schools will not only be the places where many Christian and non-Christian teachers are trained for positions in the government schools but they will supply the foundational training for those young men who wish to continue in higher forms of education. There will be a large hospital in Dhamtari where thousands will be healed from all forms of disease. Another medical station will be located many miles from Dhamtari also doing its work of mercy. The present carpenter and blacksmith shops, which are already regarded by government as a factory, will then have risen to the status of a technical institute where not only young men will receive training in character and skilled workmanship but from which many pieces of furniture will find their way to the markets. There will be an agricultural experimental station superintended by the mission but financed by the government. The Church will have won sufficient prestige and influence to receive within her ranks large numbers of the influential classes while Christian landlords all over our district will not at all be an unusual thing. Second generation Christians will then have large responsibilities in the Church while their children will be attending school. Second generation missionaries will be on the field. There will be at least fifty congregations and as many native ordained pastors in charge of them. The India Mennonite Church will consist of 30,000 members, or nearly as many as are in the Mennonite Church in America today. Delegates from the India Mennonite conference will attend the General Conference and address that body in the English language!

But whether all these things will come to pass will depend on the Church in America and on the missionaries in India. It is needless to say that unless the Church keeps firm hold on God and her missionaries in India remain loyal to God and to the Church such a great end can not be attained. What I have outlined above is entirely reasonable to expect and according to present tendencies is entirely justifiable. If not all will be realized where will the fault lie? Surely not with God. It is necessary to have confidence in one another so that the Holy Spirit may have full sway. If we are fully consecrated to God the means will be forthcoming as will also the workers. In the meanwhile let the Church hold on to God, yield herself to Him, be willing to give her best trained men and women, and confidently expect great results.

THE DAY NURSERY IN THE CITY MISSION

A. M. Eash

The primary purpose for all work of the city mission is the bringing of souls into a personal relationship with Jesus Christ as their Savior. It was with this as their aim that our first missionaries went into the cities and it is this same motive that today impels the young man and woman to offer their lives for city missionary service. Closely associated with this purpose was the desire to alleviate the sufferings caused by poverty and, in addition to the more distinct evangelistic work, the city missionary was found going into the homes of the poor, shedding tears over the tales of woe and suffering and responding to the appeal—whether directly or unconsciously made—by giving food, money or clothing.

The story of want and suffering was told in public meeting, in private conversation, and on the printed page and it required only a little while to organize societies in the congregations everywhere whose only reason for existing was doing charitable work. Clothing, provisions, and money were freely sent to the missionary and the mission became known as a free dispenser of these commodities among the poor. It was soon discovered that there were conditions existing in some homes which almost necessitated the giving of permanent support and, because of the large expense involved in giving the support in the home, the home for orphan children came into existence. It was a needed institution and filled a worthy place. Both the charitable giving by the mission and the humanitarian act of removing the extremely neglected and poverty stricken out of their homes and environment into a public institution with wholesome influences have done much good during the past twenty or more years.

Almost every good work has its associated evils and it has been repeatedly demonstrated that both these lines of helpful work have been abused. Charitable help has been given so freely and indiscriminately—and there was real need—that literal church beggars have been produced. One of the sad spectacles to the city missionary is to have one, who at one time was very loathe to accept any help whatever, develop into a literal beggar. The barrier of self respect and self dependence is broken down and they simply live on the assumption that the world—here the Church—owes them a living.

No one can fill the place of a good mother. It often happens that sickness, desertion, a death or some other misfortune has placed a good mother into a position where she was not able to provide a living for herself and her family of children. The city missionaries find many such situations that are almost heart rending. To support the family permanently would be an enormous expense and the only practical thing to do seemed to be the placing of the children into an orphans' home. It was a trying ordeal to persuade the mother to make the sacrifice and after it was all over she, with a torn and bleeding heart, turned her back upon the institution which was instrumental in taking her little jewels from her. Sometimes to drown her sorrows she gave her life over to sin and debauchery. This is not a statement of isolated conditions, as many of our city missionaries will testify.

One of the questions that has troubled our missionaries and others is the one of how to do the charitable work in a way that will be the most helpful to the entire family. Civic and philanthropic organizations in our larger cities are strongly opposed to so much and indiscriminate helping, and the institution that is constantly taking children from the parents and breaking up homes stands in disrepute. There must be a more satisfactory solution.

The normal method of support is self-support and someone said, "Why not make some provision to temporarily take care of the children while the mother is earning a livelihood?" The Day Nursery was born. The work of the Nursery, briefly stated is this: It furnishes a place where the children can be left during the hours that the mother is employed; it charges a small fee for the keeping of the children—not sufficiently to make a profit but sufficient to remove the charity stigma; it gives the children wholesome food and good care; the mother is permitted to retain her home and always have the children with her during the night and on days when she is not employed.

Now, just briefly, a statement of the work of the Day Nursery at the 26th Street mission, Chicago. It was opened in the fall of 1913 with several small children "borrowed" from one of the members to give it the Nursery appearance. The borrowing wasn't necessary very long. The work was announced in the neighboring schools and it was only a few weeks until the workers were assured that the Nursery was finding a permanent place among the activities of the mission. The work has grown rapidly until the great problem is the finding of sufficient workers to look after the children and a permanent and more convenient building in which to do the work. The following figures will give an idea of the extent of the work done: Totals for year ending May 1, 1916; Total attendance, 6735; Total number of children 180; total number of families represented 102; largest attendance 46; average attendance 22. Here is the attendance for the second week of July, 1916; Monday 41, Tuesday 43, Wednesday 40, Thursday 40, Friday 32, Saturday 15. A number of these families would have been wholly dependent on charity had it not been for the Day Nursery. In other families it might have been necessary to "break up" the home. With the help of the Nursery, some were able to keep the home together until "fortune smiled upon them" and now they have sufficient support coming from employed members of the family so that the Nursery help is no more needed. Very few children have been taken out of their homes and sent to homes for dependent children. One of the most satisfying results has been the many who were through the Day Nursery brought into touch with the mission and the children into the Sunday school. Approximately one fourth of the present members of the Beginners Department were brought in by the Day Nursery.

As an activity in our city missions, the Day Nursery is still knocking for admission into most of them. As a Church we are conscious of the need of placing the charity work in the missions on a more practical and satisfactory basis. Why not, then, seek to be led into the experience where our efforts will do the most and the most permanent good?

THE MISSION OF THE CHURCH COLLEGE

J. E. Hartzler

Practically all of the older Colleges and Universities have been organized and established by Church men with the special aim of producing Church men and religious leaders. The Church is responsible in a large measure for the educational system and standards of today. Many of the very best colleges and universities today are denominational institutions. And why should they not be? Should not the Church have control of the greatest influence for good or bad in the world? What a man is intellectually will determine in a large measure what he will be religiously.

Goshen College is a denominational school; it can be nothing else. It was called forth by Church men, Church leaders. In the divine plan of God in this world there was a place for such an institution as Goshen College. There were hundreds of young men and women who needed a Christian education and who could not be reached by any other institution. The gap between our own young men and women and other schools twenty years ago was too great. Two dangers presented themselves in those days. First, was the danger of neglecting education entirely. Second, was the danger of being taken entirely away from the Church. Goshen College finds its peculiar duty and mission in removing both these dangers.

But to be more specific, what is the mission of the Church College? Two things especially:

I. To Educate. But "to educate" does not mean the same thing to every man. Neither does education mean the same thing to every generation. There is what we call a permanent, and an immediate goal in education. The permanent goal is the same for all generations; that of the capitalization of the individual with character and the making of a life. The immediate goal changes with changing conditions. Religious, social, moral, economic, and industrial efficiency is the immediate goal today.

It is usually the under dog that is anxious for intervention.

Recently a wise mother, a wise father, a wise teacher, and a wise doctor were each in turn asked what the aim in the education of children should be. The Father said: "I want them to stand for a sane and reason-help the country." (Relg. Ed. June '16).

But the peculiar mission of the denominational school, of Goshen College, is to teach young men and women to know, to love and reverence the Author of life; to love the good, the true, and the beautiful and to incorporate these in life; to learn thoughtfulness, kindness, charity, and helpfulness; to master the mind, the will, the appetite, and passions; to know that hard work is honorable, that poverty is no disgrace, that persecution is no evidence of divine disfavor and that service makes worthy able attitude toward life. Above all I want them to be courageous and straight forward." The Teacher said: (with quick tears dimming her eyes, for she had three children of her own and she was a widow), "Nothing matters if they will only serve the ideal." The Doctor said: "I want to give them and every one else in the world three things—work, play, and love. I mean that I want them to have the right kind of service thru work, their own best form of recreation and beauty and the right kind of family and friends." The Mother said: "I want my precious little girls to learn to serve others, to feel themselves a part of the state and bound to do their share to living and a life worth while; to know that selfishness is sin and that courage lies in being true and genuine; to form good habits and to acquire efficiency, this is education.

Goshen College

II. To Serve the Church. But the great mission of the Church college is to serve the Church in the exposition of the truth and of Christian doctrine as interpreted and applied by the parent Church. Neither Church nor school can fulfil its mission without the other; both can do their best service when each supports the other. Missions are but a means to an end; schools are but means to an end. Both are but tools in the hands of the Church, and the Church is a tool in the hands of Christ. The carpenter has many tools in his chest; so has the great Architect and Builder of the universe.

But the great field of service in the Church is that of training of Christian leadership in the interests of the Church, for her advancement, her progress and the uplift of men. This is an added responsibility upon the denominational school which is not upon the State institution. The peculiar mission of the Church College is in its direct service in the Church.

Goshen College maintains the following departments:

The College of Liberal Arts leading to A. B. and B. S. degrees.

The Academy with standard four year High School course.

The Normal School offering "A," "B" and "C" class work preparing teachers for all grades of public school teaching.

The School of Bible and Missions offering courses in Old and New Testament History, Prophecy, Epistles, Biblical, Systematic and Practical Theology, Life and Times of Jesus, Christian Doctrine, Sunday School, with special work for ministers, Missionaries and Sunday School workers.

The School of Business offering practical courses in bookkeeping, shorthand, and typewriting.

The School of Agriculture offering courses in practical agriculture, dairying, horticulture, animal husbandry, soils, crops, etc.

The Department of Home Economics offering courses in sewing, cookery, food chemistry, nutrition, household management, household sanitation, bacteriology, etc.

The School of Music offering full courses for artists, music teachers, choristers, Christian workers, with special attention given to sacred music.

With the Christian spirited men and women on the faculty that we have at this time and with the kind and constructive support of the constituency, Goshen College is better able to meet the demands of the Church in providing Christian education under Church influences than it ever has been. As you pray around the world for our different Church institutions and missions do not pass Goshen without offering a sentence for your college.

HESSTON ACADEMY AND BIBLE SCHOOL

D. H. Bender

Two New Ventures

The attendance, work, and demands made on our Church school in the west during the last few years made it necessary for the management to enlarge both building capacity and the curriculum. To meet the first requirement a new was planned. Work was begun more than a year ago. The foundations were put in place, but the lack of sufficient funds did not permit any attempt on the superstructure. This year the way was opened just a little further and work on the walls was begun in the spring. At this time (July 27) the walls are completed and work on the roof begun. It is the intention to completely inclose the building with windows and doors and have it ready for the sessions of the Kansas-Nebraska Conference which are scheduled to be held in the new and enlarged assembly hall during the first week in September. (This was done.—Ed.)

Although without roof, windows

A Hesston Group

or doors, the exercises of the last commencement week were held in the new building. The weather was ideal, and with the starry canopy of heaven for a roof and the open window and door spaces to assure free ventilation, and with ample seating capacity for the large attendance, we already experienced in part the thrill of satisfaction we hope to enjoy when the building is finally ready for occupancy.

The building is practically a three-story brick building, well arranged to give ample room for offices, recitation rooms, library, laboratories, and accessory rooms. The assembly room is so arranged that by raising the folding doors another large room may be added, thus giving seating capacity for about six hundred people.

Our prayer now is that the Lord may open the way to sufficient funds so that the building may be completed soon and allow the growing school to move into more commodious quarters. Our policy is not to plunge the institution into debt, so we must be governed by available funds in our building operations and improvements. We have the confidence, however, that "in due season" we shall enjoy this much needed blessing "if we faint not" in our efforts and patience.

The second new venture is that of adding a department in

College Work

Originally the institution provided for courses in three departments—Academic, Normal, and Bible. These were supplemented with work in the Preparatory department for those who had not fully completed the common school branches, and in Vocal Music. As the institution grew and conditions required and justified, our curriculum was enlarged, so that now work is offered in six departments—Academy, Normal, Bible, Vocal Music, Preparatory, and College.

These departments are subdivided in at least three instances: In the Bible department three distinctive courses are given—Elementary (a two-year course); Bible Academy (a four-year course, admitting to the college), and Advanced Bible (requiring two years of college work).

In the Normal department the regular State Normal Training course has been added, preparing teachers for state certificates. In the Vocal Music department, a side course in harmony and hymnology will be attempted this year. Aside from these regular courses work is given when called for in penmanship, voice culture, oratory, and other lines.

But what to do with our young people, who having graduated from our four-year courses and wished to take college work at Hesston, was the problem before us for a few years. Last year it was thought that the demand was sufficiently strong to merit the organizing of a college department. By consent of the Board of Education and under the direction of the state university, the first year college was added. Thirteen students took work in this department the first year, and this year two years of regular college work is offered.

The work of the college department is so arranged that some subjects are interchangeable between the regular college and the Advanced Bible department, thus making it convenient in arranging classes and helpful to students who wish to take some Bible and still get college credit for the same.

The outlook for the coming year is good, but this does not remove any of the concern and solicitude that weighs upon those who have the responsibility of the work. Prayers for a righteous administration and a godly success are solicited.

THE EASTERN MENNONITE SCHOOL

Initial steps looking to the establishment of a school for Mennonites in the east were taken early in the year 1913 when a number of brethren met together for calm consultation, as to the best plan for bringing the matter to the attention of the brotherhood and for getting advice and sanction from the eastern conferences.

The favorable action taken by the Virginia Conference at its fall session of the same year, opened the way for brethren within its bounds, who were interested in the movement, to formulate more definite plans and propositions for advancing the work toward final consummation.

The Southwestern Pennsylvania Conference having also taken friendly action, and the matter having been freely discussed with members of the other eastern conferences as to the wisdom or unwisdom of encouraging the establishment of an institution for the safeguarding of our young people during their student life; when, upon the giving of a cordial welcome by officials of the congregation at Maugansville, Md., a general meeting of promoters of the school cause was held at that place on Feb. 17 and 18, 1914.

In this meeting the Eastern School proposition was discussed by representative brethren from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia, in which the proposition itself was looked upon as one not without some grave and doubtful features; however, the consensus of opinion in the summing up was, that if the right teachers be found and a safe management secured, such a school could be recognized as a necessity.

Before the close of the two days' session, the organization of a General Board was effected, and standing committees were appointed.

This Board has authorized the drafting of a safely conservative Constitution, by which it is to be perpetuated and governed, and the school itself operated and safeguarded for the Church.

By the authority and direction of this General Board, instructors have been employed for a Bible course given in the first part of the year 1915 and another in the early part of 1916.

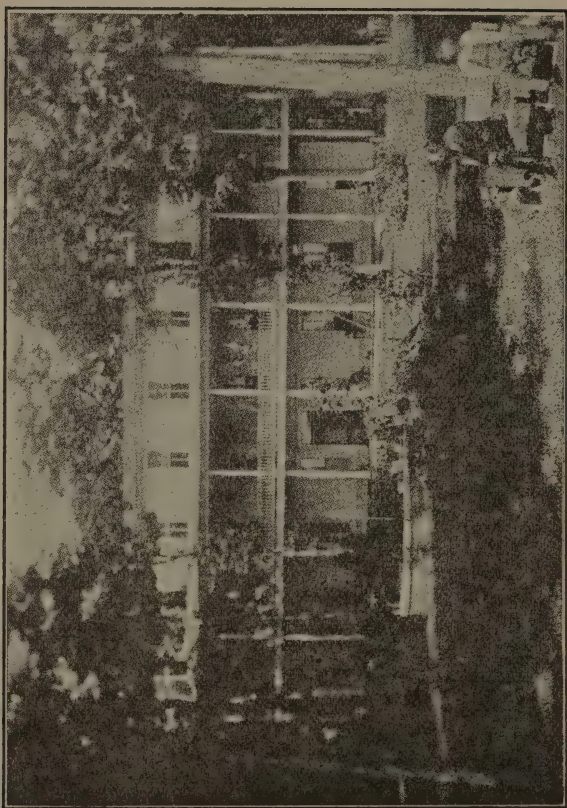

The number of students in attendance and the general interest that was created has suggested the laying out in systematic order such definite lines of Bible work as will harmonize with and naturally follow the courses already taken, all of which are designed to cover not less than four years.

The promoters and patrons of the Eastern School are eager to see its dominant features culminate in a strong Bible Course by which the student body may freely imbibe the mission spirit and get the necessary training that shall equip them for Christian service in whatever fields to which God and the Church may call or send them. Efforts are in progress for continued extension and strengthening of this course, along with the special training in vocal music looking to a helpful stimulation and encouragement of this form of divine worship in all our congregations.

That students may become better equipped for meeting requirements of the more definite Bible work now in contemplation, arrangements are being made for the giving of instruction along Preparatory, Academic and Normal lines, as the need for these courses may arise.

A CREED

Let me be a little kinder,
 Let me be a little blinder
 To the faults of those about me.
 Let me praise a little more;
 Let me be when I am weary,
 Just a little bit more cheery;
 Let me serve a little better
 Those that I am striving for.

Let me be a little braver
 When temptation bids me waver.
 Let me strive a little harder
 To be all that I should be;
 Let me be a little meeker
 With the brother that is weaker;
 Let me think more of my neighbor
 And a little less of me.

Let me be a little sweeter,
 Make my life a bit completer,
 By doing what I should do
 Every minute of the day;
 Let me toil without complaining,
 Not a humble task disdaining;
 Let me face the summons calmly
 When death beckons me away.

SOME THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Thumb tacks are much easier to use in keeping the cover of the ironing-board in place than ordinary tacks.

When washing meat, do not throw the water away if you have house plants. Throw it around the roots of the plant. It is especially fine for geraniums.

When articles have become mildewed, boil them in sour milk or buttermilk and let dry in the sunshine. The process may have to be repeated several times, but the stains will eventually disappear under this treatment.

When hot grease has been spilled upon the floor or any other wooden surface, if cold water is poured over it immediately, it can be easily removed by scraping off, as it has not had time to soak into the wood.

If the cake icing is inclined to run, sprinkle a little flour over it and it will stop it and not taste, either.

Rust on the stove may be removed by the use of kerosene. Wash it well with a woolen cloth wet with the kerosene.

Try saturating ink spots, of however long standing, first with milk and then with turpentine. Let lie for half an hour and then wash out in the usual way.

Iron rusts will disappear as if by magic if held over the spout of a steaming tea-kettle after lemon juice has been squeezed upon the spots.

Drop a little baking-soda into the dish-pan when washing pots, pans, and kettles. They will not only be much brighter looking when done, but they will be sweeter and cleaner as well.

Put a little coal-oil in the water in which you wash your windows. They will be brighter, and in the winter the oil will keep the wet cloth from freezing before the window is clean.

To make ferns grow fast and have a dark-green color, water them occasionally with cold tea or coffee.

For cuts, wash off the blood with warm water, put on a little turpentine and bind up with a soft cloth.

Nearly all vegetables are improved by the addition of a teaspoonful of sugar in cooking.

If the hot-water bottle or any other rubber article needs mending, try using a piece of adhesive plaster.

A little soda and vinegar mixed together with a little water will often relieve a sour stomach.

A peach basket covered on the inside with white table oilcloth and on the outside with any desired material makes a handy kitchen scrap-basket.

When cooking vegetables having a disagreeable odor, put a piece of bread on top the cover. It will absorb most of the odor.

When beating eggs, be sure that every thing in use is perfectly clean, otherwise the eggs will not beat well.

When tea stains the table-cloth, cover the stain with common table salt, and then, when washed, it will come out.

An excellent way to clean a grater, after using it for chocolate, cheese, etc., is by the use of a small root brush kept for the purpose.

Pie crust will be much crisper if made with water ice cold, or if, after mixing, it is allowed to become chilled before rolling out.

Cover a burn with melted soap or molasses or with a paste made of flour and water.

When cooking ham or bacon, if you want to keep the odor out of the house, put the meat on a pie-pan and put it into the hot oven.

Do not salt soups or vegetables that will require skimming when you put them on to cook, as it will prevent the scum from rising.

Rub a sticky iron over a cloth containing melted paraffine on which a little salt has been sprinkled.

When baking batter cakes, if a tablespoonful or two of molasses is added to the batter, they will bake a delicate brown, even if no milk has been used in the mixing.

Make your curtains yellow by the use of yellow ochre. By adding it to the rinse water you can get the color desired.

Obstinate old paint stains may be removed by the use of turpentine and vinegar.

ACCOMPLISHING GOD'S PURPOSE

Look at the works of a watch and you will see a number of little wheels turning—some one way, others in an opposite direction; some moving very rapidly, others so slowly that you can detect no motion. Yet all together they are working to produce the steady, regular movements of the hands upon the watch's face. So circumstances in the life of a child of God are some apparently adverse, others more favorable, many moving to all appearances contrary to love and wisdom, yet all work together to carry out the wise and loving purpose of the Heavenly Father.

TITHING

By tithing we mean giving one-tenth of one's income to support the work of the Lord. The practice of tithing was observed in ancient times. The Jews were commanded to "bring all the tithes into the storehouse." With the blessings of the gospel which we enjoy we should be willing to give at least as much as the Hebrews gave before the time of Christ.

We should begin to tithe when our earnings are small. A girl who received five dollars scrupulously laid fifty cents aside to be used for the work of the church. When her wages become larger she will be ready to give accordingly. Whereas, if she had not tithed the small amount she would hardly give one-tenth of larger wages.

Tithing brings rich rewards. We feel repaid when we can help a worthy cause. There is a satisfaction in feeling that we are living up to the Bible standard of giving. The Lord also has promised a special blessing upon those who obey His law. This is true in material as well as in spiritual things. God's blessing can make ninety cents go as far as one dollar without it.

"Bring ye the tithes into the storehouse."—Selected.

GREAT MEN AND THE BIBLE

Modern skeptics sometimes try to discount the Bible by saying that no really great men believe in it. Below are given the opinions of a number of great men concerning this wonderful Book:

Isaac Newton: "I find more sure marks of authenticity in the Bible than in any profane history whatever."

Andrew Johnson: "I believe in Almighty God, and I believe also in the Bible."

Abraham Lincoln: "In regard to the great Book, I have only to say that it is the best gift which God has given to man."

James K. Polk: "I have read the sacred Scriptures a great deal and deeply reverence them as divine truth."

Franklin Pierce: "All real progress rests upon the great truth affirmed and illustrated by divine revelation."

READING THE BIBLE

There is no book like the Bible. Sir Walter Scott, when dying, asked his friend to read to him and said, "There is but one book—the Bible." Have you read it? This book contains the most wonderful history, the most beautiful poetry, the finest songs, the most inspiring biographies, the most marvelous prophecies of any book in the world. Moreover, it tells the story of Jesus, and how we may be saved from sin. If you have never read it, begin now. By reading three chapters every day and five chapters on Sunday you may read it through in a year. Perhaps a better way is to take one book at a time and read that straight through as you would read a story. Choose your own plan, but don't fail to read the Bible. It will be "a lamp unto your feet and a light unto your pathway."

"DO UNTO OTHERS"

Do you wish for kindness? be kind;

Do you ask for truth? be true.

What you give of yourself, you find;

Your world is a reflex of you.

For life is a mirror. You smile

And a smile is your sure return.

Bear hate in your heart, and ere-while

All your world with hatred will burn.

Set love against love. Every deed

Shall, armed as a fate, recoil;

You shall gather your fruit from the seed

That you cast yourself in the soil.

Each act is a separate link

In the chain of your weal or your woe;

Cups you offer to drink

The taste of their dregs you shall know.

Look without. What you are, doubt it not,

You will see, you will feel in another;

Be your charity stainless of blot,

And how loving the heart of your brother!

THE NEED OF A GUIDE

Every human life needs a guide. No vessel would go out upon the broad, pathless ocean to plow its way through the waters and to try to reach a safe port on the other side without compass, chart, or pilot. No man would trust himself to enter Mammoth Cave and explore its dark labyrinths without a guide who knew every inch of the way. Tourists will not go up among the Alps without a guide of long experience. We must have an old oarsman of tried skill to take us through the Rapids. A mother will not suffer her child to go alone through the tangled streets and surging throngs of the great city; some one who knows the way must hold it by the hand. Yet the way through this world is a thousand times harder to find and far more perilous than any of these. It is over a sea whose waves break on the shores of eternity, and through which no path lies. It is over mountains more steep and rugged than any Alps. It is through the darkest labyrinths and thickest jungles.

Beyond this world there is a beautiful shore where the sun never sets, and the storms never break; and death never comes. There is the home of the blessed. There is the Father's house with its many mansions. There are the crowns of gold and the harps and the robes of white. But no mortal can ever find the way alone. Millions have tried it. They have refused friendly guidance. They have gone out on the long, perilous journey with no one to lead them by the hand. And they have been lost in the way. Not one of them has ever reached the gate of life and glory. Oh, then strew the whole wide wastes of this desert world, the skeletons of those who have perished in life's journey because they would not be led!

Every life needs a guide. We are like the children in the midst of an interminable, trackless forest, which is filled with wild and blood-thirsty beasts of prey. Yet there are thousands who will accept no guidance. They would not climb a mountain alone, nor explore a dark cavern, nor cross the great forest, nor put out on the sea, without experienced guides; but they will try to go through this world alone, to find the way themselves and to defend their own lives against dangers. Fatal presumption!—J. R. Miller, in Buffalo Christian Advocate.

THE UNKIND WORD

If I had known in the morning
How wearily all the day
The words unkind
Would trouble my mind
I said when you went away,
I had been more careful, darling,
Nor given you needless pain;
But we vex our own
With look and tone,
We may never take back again.

For though in the quiet of evening
You may give me the kiss of peace,
Yet well it might be
That never for me
The pain of the heart should cease.
How many go forth in the morning
Who never come home at night,
And hearts are broken
For harsh words spoken,
That sorrow can ne'er set right.

We have careful words for the stranger,
And smiles for the some time guest,
But oft for "our own"
The bitter tone,
Though we love our own the best.
Ah! lip with the curve impatient;
Ah! brow with the look of scorn,
'Twere a cruel fate
Were the night too late
To undo the work of morn.

—Margaret E. Sangster.

THE WORLD'S GREAT LIBRARIES

Dr. G. K. Fortesque, keeper of printed books, who lately retired from the British Museum after a service there of forty-two years, is authority for the statement that the Museum possesses between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000 books and is growing at the rate of 50,000 volumes a year. The catalogue contains 4,000,000 entries, and there are forty-six miles of bookshelves.

The greatest libraries of the world, according to the same authority, now rank as follows: British Museum, 3,500,000 to 4,000,000; National Library, Paris, 3,500,000; Imperial Library, St. Petersburg, 1,882,000; Congressional Library, Washington, 1,794,000; Royal Library, Berlin, 1,400,000; Royal Library, Munich, 1,100,000; Imperial Library, Vienna, 1,000,000; Harvard University, Boston, 900,000; New York Public Library, 800,000; Victor Emmanuel Library, Rome, 800,000; Bodleian Library, Oxford, 750,000; Yale University, New Haven, 625,000; Royal Library, Brussels, 600,000; Advocates' Library, Edinburgh, 565,000; Vatican Library, Rome, 450,000; Cornell Library, Ithaca, 400,000; University of Chicago, 400,000.

An obscure Italian refugee in England, who afterwards became Sir Anthony Panizzi, rearranged and built up the British Museum library from 250,000 books in 1837 to 1,500,000 volumes in 1865, when he retired. Doctor Fortesque was his successor. Since the British copyright act of 1843 the Museum has been getting at least every copyrighted book and pamphlet published in the British dominions. There is a daily average attendance of 700 persons in the reading room.—The Visitor.

WATCH!

1. Watch your tongue. Don't let it speak hasty, cruel, unkind, or wicked words.

2. Watch your eyes. Don't permit them to look on wicked books, pictures, or objects.

3. Watch your ears. Don't suffer them to listen to wicked speeches, songs, or words.

4. Watch your lips. Don't let tobacco soil them; don't let strong drink pass them.

5. Watch your hands. Don't let them steal or write any evil words.

6. Watch your feet. Don't let them walk in the steps of the wicked.

7. Watch your head. Don't let the love of sin dwell in it. Don't give it to Satan; but ask Jesus to make it his throne.—Selected.

BEYOND TODAY

If we could see beyond today

As God can see;

If all the clouds should roll away,

The shadows flee,

O'er present griefs we would not fret,

Each sorrow we would soon forget,

For many joys are waiting yet

For you and me.

If we could know beyond today,

As God doth know,

Why dearest treasures must go,

And tears must flow,

And why the darkness leads to light,

Why dreary paths will soon grow bright;

Some day life's wrong will be made right—

Faith tells us so.

If we could see, if we could know,

We often say;

But God in love a veil doth throw

Across our way;

We cannot see what lies before,

And so we cling to Him the more;

He leads us till this life is o'er—

Trust and obey.

“Do not look at clouds and shadows,

Watch for sunshine day by day;

Let your tones be full of courage,

Scatter gladness on the way.

Up and down the teeming present,

Learn the dear and precious art,

How to meet both haps and mishaps

Ever with a cheery heart.”

If you want anything advertised without cost, tell it to a gossip.

THE HOLY LIFE

There is a faith unmixed with doubt,
 A love all free from fear;
 A walk with Jesus, where is felt
 His presence always near.
 There is a rest that God bestows,
 Transcending pardon's peace.
 A lowly, sweet simplicity,
 Where inward conflicts cease.

There is a service God-inspired,
 A zeal that tireless grows,
 Where self is crucified with Christ,
 And joy unceasing flows.
 There is a being "right with God,"
 That yields to His commands
 Unswerving, true fidelity,
 A loyalty that stands.

There is a meekness, free from pride,
 That feels no anger rise
 At slights, or hate, or ridicule,
 But counts the cross a prize.
 There is a patience that endures
 Without a fret or care,
 But joyful sings, "His will be done,
 My Lord's sweet grace I share."

There is a purity of heart,
 A cleanness of desire,
 Wrought by the Holy Comforter
 With sanctifying power.
 There is a glory that awaits
 Each Blood-washed soul on high,
 When Christ returns to take His Bride
 With Him beyond the sky.

THE STATE OF THE CHURCH

What is the state of the church?
 Does it stand four-square against the introductions of the world? Parents have no time to teach their children.
 Families do without morning prayer.
 Why does not the church demand that the standards of the church should not be lowered? We are living the life of heathen. The worship is materialism and commercialism. Are we going to let the church sink to these low levels, or are we going to devise some means whereby the worship of God shall be established for every day?—Hon.
 S. H. Blake at the Anglican Synod.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT

In a Bible lesson recently the teacher gave the following, illustrating the Christian's walk: In a crowded street in a large city, whether you are walking or driving, if you always keep to the right, every one near you is going your way, and you have no trouble with collisions, but if you get in the middle or opposite side, the others are all coming toward you, and you have no end of trouble. No difference which way you are going, you simply need to keep to the right, to find the track clear.

So with the Christian. If we keep in the center of the fold we have great protection. The nearer we live to Jesus, the less attractive the world looks to us, and the more precious Jesus becomes every day. But if we are always wishing we could partake in worldly amusements, or follow the fashions of the world, or join worldly organizations, for worldly gain, or engage in any worldly, Christless enterprise, there is constant friction—every one is going the opposite way. We are continually rubbing up against opposing forces. We can not enjoy the Christian life, and we really do not want to try to enjoy the worldly life. In other words, we want to be Christians, but we do not want to pay the price. We want to be saved, but we want to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season.

Young Christians run great risk by choosing for their associates young people who are worldly, pleasure-loving, fashionable—anything but holy and spiritual and Christlike. They soon become lukewarm or cold, disinterested in the work of the Church, neglectful of Bible study and true devotion. Ere they are aware, Satan's power is too much for them, and their Christian life is a failure.

Remember, that it is only the exception to the rule, that worldly young people are drawn to God by your thus being led away by them, but it is much more probable that you will be drawn away from God. There are enough temptations in this cold world at best, with the purest, most holy young people for our associates. Make sure of doing your very best with your life and influence. Do all the good you can, by choosing the best.

"Keep to the right," and you will be safe.

—Nettie C. Weybright.

THE STREAM THAT IS NEVER CROSSED

There's many a sorrow and pain we
know,

As we tread the path of life;

There's many a grief and lasting
woe,

And the way is toil and strife.

But the hardest load we have to bear
Is the labor and strength that's lost

In building the bridge with toilsome care

O'er the stream that is never crossed!

We have fretting and worry from morn till night

And anguish weighs on the heart;

The thorny way seems hard to right,

And life is a bitter part,

But there is a burden greater yet,

Much peace of soul it has cost,

It is building a bridge with toil and sweat,

O'er the stream that is never crossed.

A New Model Typewriter

The — No 9
OLIVER
The Standard Visible Writer

BUY IT NOW

Yes, the crowning typewriter triumph is here!

It is just out—and comes years before experts expected it. For makers have striven a life-time to attain this ideal machine. And Oliver has won again, as we scored when we gave the world its first visible writing.

There is truly no other typewriter on earth like this new Oliver "9." Think of touch so light that the tread of a kitten will run the keys!

CAUTION

The new-day advances that come alone on this machine are all controlled by Oliver. Even our own previous models—famous in their day—never had the Optional Duplex Shift.

It puts the whole control of 84 letters and characters in the little fingers of the right and left hands. And it lets you write them all with only 28 keys, the least to operate of any standard typewriter.

Thus writers of all other machines can immediately run the Oliver Number "9" with more speed and greater ease.

WARNING

This brilliant new Oliver comes at the old-time price. It costs no more than lesser makes—now out-of-date when compared with this discovery.

For while the Oliver's splendid new features are costly—we have equalized the added expense to us by simplifying construction.

Resolve right now to see this great achievement before you spend a dollar for any typewriter. If you are using some other make you will want to see how much more this one does.

If you are using an Oliver, it naturally follows that you want the finest model.

17 CENTS A DAY!

Remember this brand-new Oliver "9" is the greatest value ever given in a typewriter. It has all our previous special inventions—visible writing, automatic spacer, 6½ ounce touch—plus the Optional Duplex Shift, Selective Color Attachment and all these other new-day features.

Yet we have decided to sell it to everyone everywhere on our famous payment plan—17 cents a day! Now every user can easily afford to have the world's crack visible writer, with the famous PRINTYPE, that writes like print, included FREE if desired.

TODAY—WRITE FOR FULL DETAILS

and be among the first to know about this marvel of writing machines. See why typists, employers, and individuals everywhere are flocking to the Oliver. Just mail a postal at once. No obligation. It's a pleasure for us to tell you about it.
